

Looking at the News With Col. Hugh Clark

There is a reason why Bernard Shaw should approve the Russian experiment. In one respect at least, it carries out his ideas. In the long preface to his play, "Getting Married," written in 1910 he says: "The husband, then, is to be allowed to discard his wife when he is tired of her, and the wife the husband when another man strikes her fancy? One must reply unhesitatingly in the affirmative; for if we are to deny every proposition that can be stated in offensive terms by its opponents, we shall never be able to affirm anything at all."

Things are not what they seem and some things never will be so long as they cover peach baskets with red gauze.

The bully, savagely: "I can lick you in one minute."

The other follow, quietly: "Well, from what I know of you, I should judge you wouldn't say so unless you were dead sure of it."

The Toronto street railway showed a deficit of nearly half a million last year and this year it will probably be double that amount. The Ottawa street railway has passed its dividend. In smaller cities electric railways have been abandoned. It is rather mean to bring the matter up, but what are those people doing now who, some years ago, tried to stamper the people of Ontario into a vast extension of radial lines? They are giving advice on other things.

The auctioneer's hammer with his going-going-gone is a very old institution, but not so old that it had no predecessor. Three hundred years ago in England auction sales were conducted by the inch of candle. The last bid made before the flame went out was the successful one. Needless to say, it was hard for the auctioneer to get bids until the candle was well-nigh spent. On Nov. 5, 1660, Pepys sold two ships in this way and observed how they (the prospective bidders) "do invite one another and at last how they all do cry and we have much to do to tell

Local Business Men Meet Re Debt Adjustment Act

At a meeting of the business men of Vulcan, held at the municipal office on Tuesday night, the following recommendations and resolutions were passed regarding the operation of the Debt Adjustment Act.

1. This meeting of the business men of Vulcan and district supports the principle of the Debt Adjustment act whereby the farmer who is financially involved and unable to meet his liabilities may seek the protection to make an equitable division of the annual proceeds of his farming operations.

2. That whereas it is common knowledge that in the past some farmers have not made a true report of their crops and other proceeds to the Debt Adjustment Board, and whereas it is impossible without incurring considerable expense for the Board to properly supervise the individual needs and circumstances of the farmer, it is hereby resolved:

3. That a local voluntary committee of the business men of each district be formed to report on and advise the director in each and every case in their district, to assist in providing the necessary credits according to the actual needs and merits of each individual case.

BIG TALKING PICTURE COMING TO VULCAN

One of the great events of the picture year comes to the Vulcan theatre, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 18 and 19, when "Whoopie" the Samuel Goldwyn-Florenz Ziegfeld musical riot, starring Eddie Cantor, makes its appearance here. This famous pair of producers, kings of the screen and the stage respectively, have exhausted every angle of their art to make "Whoopie" memorable. Already known to the entire United States as one of the most successful Ziegfeld musical shows ever produced in its stage form, the greater freedom of the talking color screen has developed it into a history-making picture.

The cost of the production, originally estimated at a million and a half dollars, was nearer the two million mark when shooting was completed. The filming called for seventy-four changes of scene, many of them taken in such world-famous natural beauty spots as Zion National Park, 512 changes of costume and scenes including four and five hundred people.

The entire Goldwyn and Ziegfeld staffs were combined to make "Whoopie" technically perfect, with Thornton Freeland, young and brilliant Hollywood director, in charge of the filming. In "Whoopie" a great stage success becomes one of the pictures that make history.

The management have arranged one show Friday evening at 8:30; a matinee Saturday at 2:30 and two shows Saturday night at 7:30 and 9:30 so that all may have the opportunity to see this marvelous show.

SOME WON'T WORK

With the harvest season at its height there has developed a difficulty in securing labor. This seems incredible in view of the fact that men are still on relief lists in the city. It is nevertheless true that numbers of these have refused to go out on threshing work and are taking an attitude that is bringing them into serious disrepute.

Locally, it has been difficult during the last ten days to pick up a man. One instance is told of a man—and not so much of a man at that—being offered $2.50 to go threshing. But he replied that work seemed to be looking for him that day, and that he would just hold off for a higher bidder.

It is incidents such as this, which antagonize the farmer. When he pays a $2.00 wage to an outfit, he pays every cent that he can afford and possibly more than he can afford. And any labourer worth while realizes this, and is glad of the chance of such a wage.

Those who have really wanted work have probably been those who went stooking the first day of harvest at $1.00 or $1.50 a day and have since joined up with threshing outfits. The remnants still accepting relief, when they could get work, are the ones who do not deserve relief.

After all, it is the taxpayer who will ultimately pay all relief bills, and it is little wonder that he finds no excuse for men who accept relief rather than work for an honest wage. It should be no difficult matter to list these men who refuse to go out to work, and refuse them any consideration, until all others are first placed. They will never be of use to the country, and are a definite liability.

In considering the matter from the standpoint of the laborer, it is said that rumors have been widespread amongst the jungles and relief camps, that the farmers are so protected by the government that they do not need to pay any debts, wages included. While this is a silly rumor, yet it may have found some believers. It is also quite unreasonable of any farmer to expect to get labor for 25 or 50 cents a day, as has been the case. Anyone realizes that harvesting is hard on clothes, necessitating an outfit for boots, overalls, shirts and possibly blankets and in many cases, a man may work for several days before he has begun to make anything for himself.

But when laborers flatly refuse to go out for a wage of $1.50 or $2.00, that is a very useful tip both for governments and municipalities. These men should be refused relief at present, and when later in the year, applicants are signing on for the various emergency works, these men should be given their chance only after those who have gone into the harvest field have been looked after.

Employers during the threshing season have an admirable opportunity of estimating the character of the men working for them. Some are born hoboos, some are trouble makers, some are hard-working, industrious men. It is a pity there is no way of passing on this information to headquarters, so that the industrious and deserving would have the first consideration in any work program for the winter. Give those who have shown they want to work, the first chance to work.

HOT LUNCHES

After the happy go lucky holidays, many small children are now trudging to the routine of school life. With no special care, these children have thrived like weeds in the freedom and sunshine of the holiday period, and parents are now confronted with the problem of seeing that good health continues, despite the restraints of school.

In order to maintain health and normal development, attention to all habits is essential and not least of these is the habit of eating healthful meals.

In town, this presents no great problem, as most children are given a hot nourishing meal at noon, when they should be re-fueled. But in the country, the problem of appetizing lunches, hangs heavy. It is difficult to provide a cold lunch that will have the sustaining quality, of some warm food. Some wise and thoughtful school districts, have provided for the physical welfare of their little charges, by establishing a school cupboard and incorporating in the noon lunch hour a very good foundation in domestic science. The older pupils take turns in making some simple dish of cocoa, soup, chowder and so on. They secure useful training in cooking, housekeeping and even bookkeeping, while the younger element takes a much greater interest in what they are to eat and why, than if each alone munched a cold lunch out of a box. In some small schools also, the parents take turns in sending each day one nourishing dish adequate for the dozen or so pupils in attendance. This takes the form of a thick vegetable soup, a stew, macaroni and cheese, or something similarly wholesome.

The noon meal at school can be a most uninteresting and uninviting episode and the fact that it is so often is just that, accounts for much of the malnutrition, nervousness and backwardness on the part of some children. This is one of the big problems of the country school. The little folks hurry from home, after a sketchy breakfast, confronted with a long walk or ride. They need and deserve a generous re-stocking at noon. And there is a steadily increasing number of country districts, that recognize this as a matter quite as worthy of attention as any other in the school regime.

A PEACE PARK

At a recent meeting of the Motor Associations of Montana and Alberta, a resolution, unanimously supported, was that Waterton and Glacier be united in a Great Peace Park, to symbolize Canadian-American relationship. It would be the first of its kind, along the thousands of miles of international boundary, and because of its nature would be a particularly fitting arrangement. An international playground would bring people of both nations together under happiest of auspices, and further cement the goodwill existing between the countries. It would dispose tourists toward a further exploration of both countries.

Already there have been many irritating little episodes between the two nations that tend to discourage the atmosphere of friendliness and goodwill that has so long prevailed. A gesture in the way of understanding and free intermingling is apropos at the moment, and the move to unite these two parks as one, will no doubt receive the approbation of everyone.

WITH SMILING FACE

A couple of years ago, many arriving in this country from older lands, commented with wonder and envy upon the fearlessness of Canadians. They referred to the prevailing attitude toward material welfare. Canadians were apparently never oppressed with fear of losing a job or of being without work. Young people leaped recklessly into marriage, without a stake but also without forebodings. They felt secure that, given reasonable health, they would get along. People bought what they needed or wanted, on time, with full confidence in the future. Nowhere was there apprehension or poverty or any reason for fear.

Today in Canada, this attitude to life is no longer noticeable. In fact great numbers of people are fear ridden. Some have reason, other merely fear that some time they will have to face fear. They borrow trouble, and the optimism which dominated the country two years ago, is replaced by a pessimism which may or may not be justified, but which is nevertheless extremely unhealthy. The infection has spread from those who actually are out of work, to those who are quite as well off and as secure as they ever were.

It is this attitude of mind, which is going to make economic recovery difficult. Babson, probably the most prominent statistician in United States, is convincingly sure that good times are immediately ahead. While no one dare say that he is infallible, yet his predictions of the 1929 collapse were made, a considerable time before they happened. His sources of information are collected from no one industry or no one area, but are nation wide. And his charts reveal a stir in industry here and there that points to a lifting of the shadows. If American prosperity is returning, though never so slowly, the same condition is likely to be experienced in Canada.

The relief program of public works which is being prepared, ensures thousands of workmen of steady pay, which though small, will be in constant circulation. It will increase buying power throughout the Dominion. Though a temporary measure, it may give just that necessary impetus that will carry the working world ahead. It will have the effect of mental release on the country, providing a much happier condition than when thousands of the population are wandering from point to point begging for food.

If those who are secure would carry on with their old vigor, instead of dropping into the fear-ridden ranks, they would contribute a much healthier mental attitude, and pave the way for that economic recovery which statisticians predict.

A WOMAN STATES IT

A woman Parliamentarian of the calibre of Agnes McPhail very often views national situations from an angle which does not apparently strike the masculine members as so important. Her speech, following the Beauharnois exposures, as taken from Hansard, touches one phase of the scandal which has occurred to many, but which has not been sufficiently emphasized. She says:

"There is nothing quite so nauseating to the people of Canada, nothing that arouses a rebellious spirit so strongly as the fact that when they are striving to remain honest and cheerful and hard-working, at the same time see a bunch of rogues making off with wealth that really belongs to the nation. Unless something definite is done to curb these so-called financiers and the senators who got some of the money through their supposed political value, then as a former teacher and as a woman I would ask: What are we going to teach the children of Canada? What is the use of saying to the boys and girls in our public schools: 'We must have high ideals, we must be honest and hard-working, we must respect our institutions, we must look up to our public men and have confidence in them,' if such men are to be allowed to remain in the parliament of Canada? Here are three senators who appeared before the Beauharnois committee, and I suppose they will continue to bear the prefix 'honorable.'"

"When one surveys the great fortunes which have been made in this country—and the fact is that great fortunes are being made in Canada—one traces them, always, to the natural resources. They have been made through the taking of the people's wealth. When one thinks of wealth in Ottawa, one thinks of lumber; when one thinks of wealth in Winnipeg, one thinks of wheat. Great wealth in any community has a close connection to the great natural resource of that particular locality. So again we have one bunch of exploiters—and we shall likely have others in the future—taking from the people the great natural resources that should belong to them, and taking it in a way that will cause those who use those resources when developed, to pay more for it in perpetuity, while those who by their exploitation made an exorbitant profit quite likely will go scot free. I feel there should be a law to enforce those who so exploit our great natural resources to disgorge their dishonest gains or else go to jail like any ordinary Canadian citizen would have to do if found guilty of petty thievery. Why not? If a hungry person takes a loaf of bread or a bag of potatoes, or some other thing of practically no monetary value, he is sent to jail. So why should not people who have taken wealth that certainly did not belong to them, not be brought within the criminal code?"

INEXORABLE STYLE

About forty years ago or thereabouts, a terrible battle was waged between bird-lovers and the ladies who insisted on wearing luxuriant plumage on their bonnets. Fashion of the time decreed birds served whole, birds' heads, and long trailing feathers. In encouraging the plundering and slaughtering of their winged neighbors merely to follow fashion's fancy, the women of the world were criticized bitterly. And yet kind mothers and gentle wives went right ahead and wore birds.

In the course of years, this had lapsed, and the Society for the prevention of cruelty to birds, counted it as a great moral victory. They claimed that women were growing better and nobler.

Now however, the birds and the ostrich plumes are in again, and probably in the course of a year, every woman will feel practically undressed unless she sports a bird in her bonnet.

There are some who say that the birds in bonnets are not the real thing, but are built up laboriously from a feather here and there, gathered from discarded plumage. There are some also who say that the ostrich plume is a voluntary gift to women, occasioning no slightest discomfort to the original owner.

This may or may not be true. In fact, the gluey make-up of some very imposing looking ornaments, would indicate that art has developed to such a degree that a quite convincing fowl can be built up from a few feathers out of the barn yard.

But whether or not there will be suffering involved, it looks as if women were again beginning to covet the glories of the birds of the air. And it is likely that many women, quite tender hearted otherwise, will have to wear a bird because it is the style.

It would be going to unreasonable lengths to demand the suppression of feathers. Feathers are jaunty and carefree, quite in the spirit of the time, and can be spared here and there without limiting the efficiency of the fliers. But a whole full-sized bird takes a bit of getting used to.

CARDSTON AND FIVE YEAR PLAN

Irrigation District Proposes Scheme of Farm Development for Community

One of the most talked of regions in Alberta today, according to a correspondent in the Lethbridge Herald is United Irrigation district which is part of the Cardston area. This district has announced a "Five Year Plan" by which settlers may be encouraged to make their homes on the land. The L.D.S. church, a powerful factor in the plan, has announced that there will be no interest charged on any land payments due the church for the next five years. All the church asks is that the land holder conform to the plans outlined, and make payments of $1.00 an acre per year, as payment of the price of the land.

Within recent date, twenty new families have come seeking homes, and the plan as outlined in the prospectus provides many advantages.

The society of this irrigated district is called the Co-operative Land Association with the usual number of offices. Every part of farm management will be promoted, including dairying, baby beef growing, swine, poultry, bee culture, grains, grasses, windbreaks and shelter belts, vegetables, etc. A supervisor will be in charge of each of these divisions. Soil, land and water conditions will be studied by experts; to evolve the best cultivation and rotation. Included in the scheme is to be the establishment of a canning factory, creamery, butchery and so on, with a study of possible markets for products.

The settlers encouraged to make their homes there are good irrigationists and people who want to make permanent homes. The district is provided with Calgary Power, ample water supply and good schools already established.

The plan is attracting considerable notice.

INTEREST IN STRIP FARMING

Sask. Agric. Dept. Advocates a Trial to Prevent Soil Drifting

Tremendous interest has been created in Saskatchewan in the strip method of farming, such as was introduced in the Monarch district some ten years ago by the Koole brothers and others of the Dutch settlement there with great success. In the Monarch country there are now some four townships farmed almost wholly by the alternate crop and summerfallow strip method, and they are being farmed very successfully. It is a credit to the men of that district who have worked out their own salvation against the serious drifting which almost made a desert out of that area in the dry years from 1918 to 1922.

Now the people of the Regina plains, where drifting has caused tremendous loss the past couple of years and where it is a menace to permanent agriculture, are making enquiries about the strip method.

The strip method has the double advantage of preventing soil drifting on the part under summerfallow and holding the snow in the part under stubble. It keeps winter moisture in strips through the field, preventing the moisture from being blown off and the top-soil after it.—Lethbridge Herald.

DRUMHELLER TRUCK TAX

Gainor's Transit Limited of Calgary, through A. B. Mackay, president of the Alberta Motor Association, has agreed to pay, under protest, the city license of $40 demanded by the City of Drumheller for the privilege of operating trucks within the municipal boundaries. In asking for an adjournment of the case brought against the company in question under city by laws, Chief Constable John Duncan told Magistrate L. O'Connor that he would withdraw the prosecution immediately the cheque was forthcoming.

The case developed out of a by-law recently enacted which calls for licenses for all motor vehicles operating within the municipal limits. The company in question which operates a truck service between Calgary and Drumheller claimed that as their trucks were licensed to drive over provincial highways, a second license for the city itself could not be collected. City Solicitor C. A. Edwards, differed, claiming that as the company made deliveries to individual stores instead of carrying goods to a central warehouse for distribution, they came under the provisions of the by-law. A similar case came up for hearing this week at Red Deer.

ALTA FEATURES COAL ADS

Boosting Sale of Alberta Coal in Manitoba and Sask. Papers; Vigorous Campaign

"Alberta coal and western agriculture go hand in hand." This is the caption of an interesting quarter page advertisement being published in Manitoba and Saskatchewan daily papers by the Alberta domestic coal operators.

It is said to be the first chapter of a sustained campaign to induce people of these two provinces to use fuel from Alberta.

Other features of the advertisement are figures, in full face type, showing that the mining districts of Alberta spend annually $3,330,000 for food produced on western farms. Eggs consumed amount for $350,000. Pork, ham and other cured meats cost $420,000; butter, $360,000; beef, $336,000; feed and oats $148,000; and timber, bought chiefly from settlers, $98,000. Flour, hay poultry and vegetables make up the balance.

WHEAT PRICES ELSEWHERE

Despite Rockbottom Canadian Prices Wheat in Importing Countries Very High

While wheat has been dropping ever lower in Canada, it is difficult to realize that a short time ago in Italy prices were $2.00 a bushel. In Italy prices were $1.50 a bushel and German prices over $1.75.

It is hard to credit that such prices can be maintained, while there are hungry people in the cities and cheap wheat from other lands clamoring for entry.

If the governments concerned were so disposed, they could secure enough wheat to feed their people at much lower prices than they are maintaining. There seems to be a serious flaw in the fact that Canada's purchasing power is reduced to minimum because wheat has very little value, while other countries are holding prices to $2.00 despite the existence of thousands of hungry people.

WHY SOILS WILL BE EXHAUSTED

Necessary Minerals Removed From Soil With Every Crop

In many parts of the country one hears a lot about worn-out farms. Soils do wear out by continual cropping, and here are some of the facts as supplied Dr. F. T. Shutt, M.A., D.Sc., Dominion Chemist, Department of Agriculture. A 25 bushel crop of wheat removes from the soil about 30 pounds of nitrogen, 12 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 7 pounds of potash in a year. A 200 bushel crop of potatoes removes about 42 pounds of nitrogen, 18 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 60 pounds of potash. Taking an average of these two crop types the average crop removes 36 pounds of nitrogen, 15 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 33 pounds of potash in a season. According to estimates of the total amount of plant food present in soils of good quality the available supplies of these three basic food substances would, if not renewed by some means be completely exhausted in 113 years for the nitrogen, 268 years for the phosphoric acid and in 227 years for the potash. Only by the return of plant foods can soil fertility be maintained.

Miss Vera Bertrand has resumed her studies at Crescent Heights Collegiate, where she has been in attendance for the past two years.

Miss C. O'Connell our courteous and efficient postmistress is again on duty after spending two weeks with friends and relatives at Milk River and Waterton Lakes.

Mrs. Cashato and daughter who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Parker, returned to her home at Revelstoke, on Saturday. Mrs. Parker motored to Calgary with them.

The regular September meeting of the Brant Ladies' Aid was held at the parsonage on Thursday. Owing to the busy season only a few were in attendance. President Mrs. D. Bell presided. Meeting was called to order by reading the 14th chapter of St. Johns and repeating the Lord's prayer. It was decided to have a chicken supper soon and to have Dr. Call of Calgary help with the entertainment. As there was not much business a social afternoon was enjoyed. Lunch served by Miss Farquhar, Mrs. Gould, Mrs. Johns and Mrs. P. Ford.

ARROWWOOD NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Weiss spent Sunday, Sept. 6 at Bassano.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley of Youngstown were visitors at the Leonard home Monday, August 31st.

Quite a number of Arrowwood people were visitors at Chesternere Lake to see the yacht races, Sunday.

A meeting of the program committee for the school fair was held at the home of Mrs. E. Lewendon on Saturday afternoon, September 5. Mr. Johnston the new principal of the Arrowwood school was present at this meeting.

Arrowwood school re-opened for another term of school on Tuesday. The teachers are: Miss Mackie, Grade I and II; Miss MacLeod, Grades III and IV; Miss Spencer, Grades V and VI; Mr. MacCullough, Grades VII and VIII and Mr. Johnston, Grades IX, X and XI.

way in the Arrowwood district for some time. Work with binders is about finished, but the combines are still going in full swing. Wheat heads are short and poorly filled, and kernels thin, but on an average the stubble wheat should run from seven to ten bushels per acre, and summer fallow will run from 15 to 20 bushels per acre. Feed crops are poor and pasture completely burned up. A poor crop of potatoes is reported.

Fifteen members and seven visitors met at the home of Mrs. R. H. Bishop to hold the regular meeting of the Arrowwood local of the U.P. W.A. on Wednesday afternoon, September 2. Papers on Education, Immigration and Sunshine work were given by Mrs. M. H. Ward, Mrs. M. Leonard and Mrs. J. Macleod Sr. A round table discussion on "Sandwiches" led by Mrs. J. C. MacLeod and Mrs. Gaylen Jones added much to the afternoon program. Mrs. E. Swanson read an interesting paper on sandwich fillings, etc. The hostess with Mrs. Leonard assisting served a delicious lunch.

The members of the Arrowwood W.L. were entertained by their president, Mrs. Neal McColman on Tuesday Sept. 1st in their regular monthly meeting. Roll call: "A good place to spend my next vacation," was answered by thirteen members and one visitor. A general discussion of the Institute helping to put music in the Arrowwood consolidated school took place, the matter being tabled until harvesting has been well under a later date. Routine business was followed by a paper on "Citizenship" by Mrs. M. Leonard, convener of Canadianization. An entertaining contest closed the afternoon's program. The hostess then served a delightful lunch.

On clearing the harbor the ship ran into a nasty, half-pitching, choppy sea, which was especially noticeable as the twenty-five passengers at the captain's table sat down to dinner. "I hope that all twenty-five of you will have a pleasant trip," said the captain, as the soup appeared, "and that this little assembly of twenty-four will be much benefitted by the voyage. I look upon these twenty-two faces as a father upon his family, for I am responsible for the safety of this group of seventeen. I hope that all fourteen of you will join me in drinking to a merry trip. I believe that we eight are most congenial, and I applaud the judgment which chose these three persons for my table. You and I, my dear sir, are—Here, Steward, clear away those dishes and bring me the fish!"

ROGER BABSON
SAYS OF CANADA

Canada today possesses the opportunities which the United States possessed 50 years ago and this especially applies to the four western provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. These provinces, containing an area equal to about one-quarter of virgin forests, rich deposits of coal, iron, copper, zinc, lead, gold and silver; millions of acres of the finest wheat-growing land in the world; water-power sufficient to run half the industries of America, a pulpwood supply to which the United States must ultimately turn, together with fisheries, fur industries, and other resources of income.

who did cry the last." On Sept. 3, 1862, he sold three "hulks" and records in his diary that "it was pleasant to see how backward men are at first to bid, and yet when the candle is going out how they bawl and dispute afterwards who bid the most first." And here I observed one man cunninger than the rest that was sure to bid the last man and to carry it; and inquiring the reason he told me that just as the flames goes out the smoke descends which is a thing I never observed before, and by that he do know the instant when to bid last, which is very pretty."

Ghandi says the question of his going to London is in God's hands, which shows that the Mahatma has not yet decided which course will be the more embarrassing to the government of Great Britain and the civil authorities of India.

The dispatch says that having made this declaration Ghandi sat down to spin yarn. We are waiting nervously for the next one.

There will be a tremendous reduction in the number of unemployed within a few days. Thousands of teachers and students who were thrown out of employment two months ago are to go back to work.

At the annual fair at Hurdwader, an elephant dealer was trying to sell an elephant which was unsound but which he had fixed up for the sale. Noting a native critically examining the beast, he went to him and said, "Don't say anything to damage the sale and if get five hundred rupees for the elephant I'll give you fifty." He got that price and paid the commission. Upon asking the native how he had become a judge of elephants the native said he had never seen one before and when he showed so much curiosity he was only trying to discover which was the head and which was the tail. This story, which appeared in a paper in India, does not seem so absurd after reading the evidence given before the Beulah-Walker committee by Mr. Sweeney and Mr. Aird.
